Removed chunks from Q10-A — see pg 11.

Q10-A: $6\frac{7}{8}$ " long x $11/16$ " wide x 0.014" piece of steel which has physical appearance of banding tape but has too much carbon for it. Appears to be pc. of spring steel. No teeth. Relatively free of corrosion.

Q10-B: Broken pieces fit together and have a combined length of $5\frac{3}{4}$ " broken pc about $3/4$ " long, $11/16$ " wide x 0.014" thick. Steel appears old, quite rusty. Homemade "saw" blade. "coarse", 15 fine teeth/" Q10-C: Extremely fine fragmentary teeth on both sides. Steel is 6" long x $1/2$ " x x 0.021" probably a some small metal piece from a saw blade.

Quantity 1 pc. of rusty steel 1 1/4" w x 1/4" thick. One end (right end in photo on page 14) is fractured and the long, angled end is too abraded as if by digging to determine how it was formed. Longitudinal sides are relatively flat and not rounded like the usual rolled 1 1/4" wide steel strips. The fractured end apparently broke where a hole had been drilled in Q14. Hardness test: 68 1/2, 68, 70. Probably a piece of steel from some machine part or structural part which is relatively soft. Moderate rusting.

ESCAPED FEDERAL PRISONER
CONSPIRACY

IO # 3582

Our San Francisco Office obtained detailed information from [redacted], an inmate at Alcatraz, concerning the escape plans. [redacted] revealed in considerable detail the elaborate preparations which were made to effect the escape. [redacted]

[redacted] stated that on May 5, 1961 [redacted] returned to the main cell area, and he began to actively seek out a means of escape. It was general knowledge among the inmates that above the cell blocks were eight ventilator holes to the roof which had not been used in several years. These holes had been covered up with cement; however, [redacted] noticed about ten months ago that one ventilator hole was not cemented. He mentioned the possibility of escape to inmate John Anglin through the ventilator area, by gaining access to the utility corridor back of the cell blocks. The cells of the Anglin brothers were adjacent to each other. The cells of [redacted] and Morris were also adjacent to each other. With the use of sharpened spoons fashioned like screwdrivers, they dug holes into the cement which enabled them to remove a ventilator grill in the back of their cells to gain access to the utility corridor. The escapees operated as a team with one watching while the others worked. They usually worked from 5:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. As a hole was completed, it would be plugged with toilet paper and soap and then painted. A false cardboard front was made to fit a cement slab which was removed. They also made a false ventilator grill. [redacted]

Dummy heads were also made to be placed in their beds to fool the guards. The escapees made tools from clasps from a bed which they bolted together to use as wrenches in order to remove screws from the ventilator grill, thereby gaining access to the roof.

During May, 1962, [redacted] obtained a rubberized raincoat from an inmate who was transferred to another institution. Thereafter, he was able to obtain a number of raincoats which had been temporarily placed aside by other inmates. [redacted] also made life preservers from this rubberized material by sewing and gluing. This material was also vulcanized by utilizing steam pipes as a source of heat. The raincoats and residue were hidden at the top of the cell block. b7c b7D

In April or May, 1962, Morris bought a concertina, which instrument is allowed inmates at Alcatraz. The keys were removed and a valve-type arrangement was made to use this instrument as it bellows to inflate the life raft and preservers.

[redacted] stated that Morris contacted him at 9:30 p.m. June 11, 1962. [redacted] b7c b7D

This was the last contact [redacted] had with the escapees. b7c b7D

It was the belief of [redacted] that the escapees left Alcatraz by 10:30 p.m., possibly no later than 11:00 p.m., June 11, 1962.

In my memorandum of June 13, 1962, you were advised of the method of escape as revealed by [redacted] inmate at Alcatraz.

Detailed information regarding the interview with [redacted] received from our San Francisco Office, indicates the inmates worked on this plan approximately thirteen months.

[redacted] stated it was general knowledge among the inmates that above the cell blocks were eight ventilator holes to the roof which had not been used in several years. It was understood the holes had been covered with cement; however, [redacted] about ten months ago, observed that one ventilator hole was not cemented. He mentioned to John Anglin the possibility of escape through the ventilator area by gaining access to the utility corridor back of the cell blocks. The cells of the Anglin brothers were adjacent to each other as were the cells of [redacted] and Morris. With the use of sharpened spoons fashioned like screwdrivers, they dug holes into the cement which enabled them to remove the ventilator grill in the back of their respective cells.

The escapees in the adjacent cells worked as a team watching and working, usually from 5:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. As a hole was completed, it would be plugged with toilet paper and soap and then painted. False cardboard fronts, including ventilator grills, were designed to fit the holes created by the removal of cement. [redacted] heads were also made to be placed in beds to replace the guards. Available items were used as tools including bed clogs bolted together which served as a wrench.

WARDEN OLIN D. BLACKWELL, ALCATRAZ, HAS BEEN QUOTED IN THE PRESS AS SAYING HE IS NOT POSITIVE THAT INMATES HAVE GOTTEN OFF ALCATRAZ, BUT AFTER THIRTY SIX HOURS SEARCH INMATES HAVE NOT BEEN LOCATED ON ALCATRAZ AND THERE IS EVERY INDICATION THAT THEY DID GET INTO THE WATER.

DURING THE NIGHT OF JUNE TWELVE, U.S. COAST GUARD PATROLING ANGEL ISLAND RECOVERED HOMEMADE PADDLE CONSTRUCTED OF PLYWOOD AND PINE FLOATING IN THE WATER JUST OFF STUART POINT LIGHTHOUSE ON THE NORTH WEST SIDE OF ANGEL ISLAND. AGENTS DISPLAYED THIS PADDLE TO PRISON OFFICIALS WHO HAVE CONCLUDED THAT IT WAS MADE FROM MATERIALS ON ALCATRAZ AND APPEARS TO BE OF SIMILAR CONSTRUCTION TO A PADDLE PREVIOUSLY

ALL DAY SEARCH OF ANGEL ISLAND BY SQUAD OF FBI AGENTS DIRECTING ACTIVITIES OF NUMEROUS MILITARY PERSONNEL AT ANGEL ISLAND HAS FAILED TO DEVELOP ANY OTHER FACTS INDICATING INMATES SUCCESSFULLY REACHED ANGEL ISLAND.

NUMEROUS PHOTOS TAKEN BY FBI AT ALCATRAZ SHOWING ESCAPE ROUTE AND VOLUMINOUS ESCAPE EQUIPMENT ARE BEING SENT TO THE BUREAU AMSD.

AT TEN THIRTY AM WARDEN OLIN D. BLACKWELL AND FRED WILKINSON, ASSISTANT DIRECTOR, BUREAU OF PRISONS, HELD PRESS CONFERENCE AT ALCATRAZ. EARLIER I PERSONALLY CALLED BLACKWELL AND ALSO TALKED TO WILKINSON AND WARNED THEM OF PITFALLS OF SUCH PRESS CONFERENCE AND POINTED OUT INADVISABILITY OF HAVING PRESS CONFERENCE PRIOR TO TANGIBLE DEVELOPMENTS CONCERNING LOCATION OF INMATES. THEY WERE ADVISED THAT DECISION TO HOLD PRESS CONFERENCE WAS MATTER WHICH MUST BE DECIDED BY THEM. REPORTERS ATTENDING CONFERENCE ADVISED THAT IN THEIR OPINION THEY FELT THAT PRISON OFFICIALS WERE CONTRADICTORY AND EVASIVE AND REFUSED TO COOPERATE WITH THE PRESS AFTER CALLING THE CONFERENCE. REC'D - FBI - 62

SPECIAL INVESTIGATT) DIVISION

June 14, 1962

Background:

Intensive searches of the Alcatraz and Angel Island areas have failed to reveal any trace of the trio of escapees whose efforts over a year plus lax security apparently enabled them to get into the Bay using a pontoon fashioned from fifty-five raincoats they had collected. The paddle recovered by the Coast Guard near Stuart Point lighthouse indicates the possibility that the trio traversed the treacherous currents. Press conference of Bureau of Prisons, at which Warden of Alcatraz and Assistant Director of Bureau of Prisons were present, not well received because of these officials' evasive attitude, refusal to allow photographs of escape route, and refusal to answer questions concerning lax administration.

RECEIVED
JUN 14 1962
We are continuing our efforts to locate the three inmates missing from Alcatraz. No bodies have been recovered nor has any information been developed that the inmates reached the mainland or other San Francisco Bay islands.

A homemade paddle was found in the water just off the Stuart Point Lighthouse near Angel Island, which prison officials have concluded was made from materials on Alcatraz. This paddle is similar in construction to one recovered by our Agents at Alcatraz which was prepared for but not used in the actual escape.

There has been intense press interest in this escape. All inquiries received concerning the method of escape and other facts relative to escape are being answered, "No Comment" by our San Francisco Office. News media representatives attended a press conference held yesterday by Bureau of Prisons representatives. The news representatives were generally dissatisfied with the information they obtained, apparently resenting the fact that they were unable to go over the escape route and take photographs or have questions answered concerning factors which made the escape possible.

On the authority of the U. S. Attorney's Office, San Francisco, complaints were filed charging the three escapees with escape (Title 18, Section 751, U. S. Code). Bond in the amount of $50,000 was recommended for each subject.

We are continuing our intensive investigation to locate the three escapees.

ESCAPED FEDERAL PRISONERS CONSPIRACY

The San Francisco Office advised today that two additional inmates of Alcatraz were in on the escape plot. The individuals were identified as [redacted] and [redacted] Inmate [redacted] sent word to the Warden's office that he desired to see him in confidence. Upon being interviewed by Warden Olin D. Blackwell, he advised that he had dug some holes in the wall of his cell and that another inmate was also in on the plot. In order to protect the source of his information, the Warden waited approximately one hour and then ordered a search of all cells during which it was determined [redacted] had dug seven or eight holes in the vicinity of the ventilator in his cell. Inmate [redacted] had dug 36 holes. These holes were carefully camouflaged.

The warden told [REDACTED] it would be necessary for him to advise the FBI, which was done. Our Agents interviewed [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] and obtained admissions relative to the escape attempt. [REDACTED] indicated that he abandoned the idea of escape. [REDACTED] advised that [REDACTED] was told by the escapees to conceal his holes as new plumbing was being installed in the utility corridor in the back of his cell. [REDACTED] was of the opinion the subjects purposely misled

The matter of additional conspirators is being presented to the U. S. Attorney for his decision as to prosecution.

IT WAS DETERMINED CONCERNING NIGHT OF ESCAPE FROM ALCATRAZ THAT AT TEN P.M. PACIFIC DAYLIGHT TIME ON JUNE ELEVEN LAST THERE WAS A SLACK TIDE WHICH MEANT THE WATER WAS MOVING IN NEITHER DIRECTION. SHORTLY AFTER TEN P.M. THE WATER STARTED TO FLOW OUT OF THE BAY REACHING ITS PEAK VELOCITY AT MIDNIGHT AND THEN TAPERED OFF TO SLACK TIDE AGAIN AT FIVE A. M. ON JUNE TWELVE LAST. THE REACHING OF ANGEL ISLAND WOULD BE FAIRLY DIFFICULT BECAUSE IT WOULD BE GOING IN A DUE NORTHERLY DIRECTION CUTTING ACROSS THE OUTGOING TIDE. b7c

COAST GUARD AND OTHER BAY AUTHORITIES HAVE BEEN DILIGENTLY SEARCHING FOR WEBB-S BODY FOR NINETEEN DAYS BUT TO DATE THIS BODY HAS NOT BEEN RECOVERED. SIGNIFICANCE OF WEBB CASE IS THE FACT THAT HIS BODY DISAPPEARED IN THE WATER APPROXIMATELY SAME PERIOD AS ALCATRAZ ESCAPEES AND TO DATE WEBB-S BODY HAS NOT COME TO SURFACE OR BEEN RECOVERED.

The only lead for San Antonio was at Brownsville, Texas, where FRANK LEE MORRIS was arrested on 7/30/55 by the Customs Agency Service as JOSEPH A. MC ENTER for Section 545, Title 18, USC.

At the time MORRIS was arrested by the Customs Agency Service at Brownsville,

This was obviously an error at least in regard to MORRIS as his Identification Record under FBI No. 2 157 606 shows numerous arrests prior to the submission of the prints by the Customs Agency Service in Brownsville in 1955.

Customs Agent in Charge [REDACTED] at Brownsville, Texas, furnished the following information to SA [REDACTED] on 6/21/62 from his file BM6-670 relative to the arrests on 7/30/55 of JOHN ANTHONY MC ENTREE, aka JOSEPH ANTHONY MC ENTREE, [REDACTED] AND [REDACTED] b7

Above three arrested at the International Bridge at Hidalgo, Texas, on 7/30/55 as they entered the United States from Mexico.

Merchandise seized:

3 oz. refined marijuana
500 Benzadrine tablets
36 Throderazine Salicilada tablets
1 Smith & Wesson .38 calibre revolver
21 cartridges for .38
1 Iver Johnson .38 calibre revolver
1955 Oldsmobile 2-door sedan, MN V737910, 1955
Missouri license M4-024.

HISTORY OF CASE:

At about 11:30 a.m. on 7/30/55 the above named three subjects arrived at U. S. Customs in Hidalgo, Texas, entering the United States from Mexico in a 1955 Oldsmobile driven by [REDACTED]

Each of the three was asked if he was bringing back anything to declare to Customs. Each answered that he was not. A routine search of the luggage then ensued with no reason to suspect the three subjects. Because

SA 76-1625

MC ENTER acted nervous, the inspector decided to take him in the office for a body search. A body search of MC ENTER disclosed:

(1) Under clothing and belt on left side a concealed Iver Johnson .38 revolver.

(2) A Smith and Wesson .38 calibre revolver strapped to his left leg and concealed under his pants.

(3) A plastic bag containing marijuana fastened to his right leg.

(4) In his clothing were found the other drugs in tablet form.

b7C [REDACTED] and a search was made of the automobile with negative results.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

The subject, MC ENTER, confirmed their stories and said that [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] had no idea that he had any contraband or used marijuana. He took all of the blame and said that he had smoked marijuana for "many years"

At the time of the search MC ENTER also had $1,700 in cash in his pocket.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] MC ENTER was taken straight to USC J. C. HALL on 7/30/55 where he took the blame for the whole affair. He was charged with violation of Section

BA 76-1625

545, Title 18, USC, (smuggling marijuana) and bond set at $1,000. He made his own cash bond and was released. They were never in jail and none of them has been seen since.

MC ENIRE was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury at Laredo, Texas, on 9/15/55 and he was in a fugitive status until 11/19/58 when the indictment was dismissed at Victoria, Texas, on motion of the United States Attorney.

[REDACTED] furnished pictures of all three subjects and said that they have absolutely nothing else in file or that would be of value.

At the time they were fingerprinted, prints were also sent to the Texas Department of Public Safety. There is nothing in file to show that DPS had anything on the subject or [REDACTED] however. [REDACTED]

For record purposes, at 11:48 a.m. today, 6-13-62, SAC Price of the San Francisco Office telephoned and talked to Assistant Director Evans and Wick in connection with captioned matter.

SAC Price said that Assistant Director Frederick T. Wilkinson of the Bureau of Prisons had flown to the Coast from Washington, arriving yesterday and has been conferring with Warden Blackwell of Alcatraz relative to the break.

The purpose of Price's call was to advise he understood that Wilkinson and Blackwell were contemplating a press conference at Alcatraz some time this morning. At that time they would in all probability discuss the case fully with reporters. They would of course, leave themselves open for all sorts of picture taking of the dummies, holes in the wall, escape route, etc. Since the break was a carefully planned operation requiring considerable time in execution the prison certainly would not be made to look good.

Blackwell has told SAC Price he does not want to do anything that would impede the FBI's investigation and has asked Price whether he (Blackwell) should hold such a conference.

ACTION TAKEN:

Price is telling Blackwell, whom he knows personally, that the FBI will not advise the Bureau of Prisons one way or another as to whether its officials should hold a press conference, that if such a press conference is held it will be their decision to make and they must assume full responsibility for it. Lastly, the FBI will not participate in any such conference. (Price, who has several Agents at Alcatraz, is instructing these men to completely stay out of sight in the event the Bureau of Prisons goes ahead with its conference.) Price said he would so handle the matter with Blackwell.

RE: FRANK LEE MORRIS;

ESCAPED FEDERAL PRISONERS
ALCATRAZ

The Director commented on the attached June 13, 1962, "Washington Post" story, "I trust our S. F. Office isn't giving 'blow by blow' account to the press nor anyone else. Our job is to find these thugs not keep them advised of our progress."

It should be noted that at the time Wick talked with Price in connection with the Bureau of Prisons holding a press conference, Price stated his office and men are maintaining a "no comment." The press is, of course, aware the FBI is conducting an investigation. Price stated he believed the fact a fourth man was involved initially in the break came to light through a leak at Alcatraz. He stated certainly the FBI is making no comment concerning our progress or any aspect of the search.

3 Bank Robbers Dig Out Of Alcatraz With Spoons

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12 (UPI)—Three bank robbers escaped today from their cells in Alcatraz, one of the world's toughest prisons to crack, by digging through a four-inch concrete wall with kitchen spoons.

If they got away alive, it would be the first known successful escape from the formidable yellowed "Rock" in San Francisco Bay since it became a maximum security Federal penitentiary in 1934.

At least one and possibly three convicts have drowned in similar escape attempts.

The three made their bid for freedom during a night in which low fog swirled across the bay and wind whipped the cold water. The nearest land is the San Francisco shore, a mile and a half away, and Angel Island, two miles in the other direction.

The FBI was questioning a fourth convict who was supposed to have joined the escape. He told agents they planned to go to Angel Island.

There was a brief flurry of excitement in the Angel Island area when crewmen of a Coast Guard helicopter thought they had sighted a raft, but it turned out to be an empty fish basket.

The convicts were last seen at 9:30 o'clock last night and were missed at 7:15 a. m. today when prisoners were lifted up outside their cells to go to breakfast.

Their disappearance touched off a land, sea and air search by units of virtually every military and law-enforcement agency in the bay area.

The missing men were John William Anglin, 32, and his brother, Clarence, 31, both of Montgomery, Ala.; and Frank Lee Morris, 35, New Orleans.

The Anglin brothers were arrested in Hamilton, Ohio, for robbing a bank at Columbus, Ohio, on Jan. 17, 1958. Officers recovered $14,000 of their $19,000 loot.

The brothers were sent to Alcatraz after they tried to break out of the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan.

All three were serving terms of 10 to 15 years.

Acting Warden Arthur Doltison said the men got out of their ground-tier cells by digging through the concrete surrounding ventilation openings that were covered by metal mesh.

Warden Olin D. Blackwell, called back to the prison from a vacation fishing trip, said the men removed the metal from the vent, about 8 by 12 inches, then used sharpened spoons to enlarge the holes.

The spoons were found in the abandoned cells.

Blackwell said the men had painted cardboard to look like metal and used it to cover up the holes when they were not working on them.

After squeezing through the holes into a vertical utility pipe tunnel, the men climbed 30 feet to the top of the building, where they pried apart bars and escaped through an exhaust duct.

They went across the top of the building, then climbed about 40 feet down a kitchen vent pipe to the ground. If they reached the bay, they also climbed a 12-foot wire fence.

The remaining 264 prisoners were locked up in their cells for the day.

Asked whether deterioration of the old prison buildings had anything to do with the escape Blackwell said, "It didn't hinder them any."

The main buildings were constructed in 1909. The condition of the prison and expense of its operation have been an issue in Washington recently. Opponents of its continued use say it would be cheaper to move the facility than to rebuild it.

Mr. DeLoach's memorandum earlier today (June 13, 1962) set forth information concerning a contemplated press conference by the prison authorities regarding the Alcatraz escape. SAC Price was specifically instructed by Mr. DeLoach's Office to take no part in such a press conference and in fact to make certain Agents completely stay out of sight if in fact a press conference were held.

On the evening of June 13, 1962, SAC Price advised that the Bureau of Prisons officials did hold a press conference at 10:30 a.m. this morning at Alcatraz. Mr. Price has been advised by several newspaper men who attended this conference that they were very dissatisfied with the information furnished; that conflicting stories were given to them; and that they were not allowed admittance to pertinent areas nor take any pictures. According to Price, these newspaper men were generally disgruntled.

Price also advised that news articles are appearing in California papers and one carried the heading "Alcatraz Safe--We Can't Get In." This article carried a subheading "Cons Slip Out With Ease--How Safe is Alcatraz."

ACTION:

Mr. Price advised that the Bureau had absolutely nothing to do with this press conference and were maintaining the policy of making no comments concerning this investigation, which is being pressed vigorously.

Assistant Special Agent in Charge DeFord of the Tampa Office called this morning concerning the above-captioned case. DeFord stated he was calling to merely advise the Bureau of a rumble in Tampa concerning the Anglin brothers. The Anglin brothers, particularly John Anglin, are very close friends and associates of [REDACTED] As a matter of fact, John Anglin, several years ago, was arrested in [REDACTED] home and also John Anglin was, at one time, arrested in a compromising position with [REDACTED]

Last evening (July 2, 1962), according to [REDACTED] he was driving down a street in Tampa just before dark and observed a 1959 or 1960 dark red or maroon Corvair automobile containing two men. [REDACTED] states that although it was "dusky dark," he observed that one of the men could have been John Anglin. He points out that after observing this car, he drove down the street and later passed the car again. He again observed that the driver "could possibly have been John Anglin."

ASAC DeFord stated that while this information is very indefinite, they are pursuing it vigorously to determine whether, in fact, the Anglin brothers might be in Tampa, Florida. Mr. DeFord points out that because [REDACTED] is close to these boys, there is a possibility that she possibly would harbor John Anglin. However [REDACTED] did come to the Tampa Office and indicated a cooperative attitude.

ACTION:

This is for information. The Tampa Office is vigorously running out this lead. Tampa is also furnishing this information to the San Francisco Office.

You were advised in my memorandum of June 20, 1962, that the San Francisco Office had submitted a sample of material removed from holes located by prison officials in the cell of [REDACTED] an Alcatraz inmate; also, known samples of paint and cement paint were submitted for comparison purposes.

The examination of the material from the hole discloses it to be essentially a neat (no sand) Portland cement with traces of mortar and paint particles. The cement has been in contact with moisture but is not believed to have been made into a slurry. The length of time the material was in use could not be determined. The material from the hole is different from the white cement paint submitted.

Further examinations of the cement and paint are being made and you will be kept advised of any pertinent developments.

These results are being furnished the San Francisco Office by teletype today.

With regard to how James V. Bennett, Director of the Bureau of Prisons, came into possession of information regarding the photographs, names, addresses and personal items found in packets floating in the San Francisco Bay which belonged to escapees John and Clarence Anglin, SAC Price of our San Francisco Office advised that the Coast Guard delivered these items to shore. Coast Guard obtained same from a debris boat which was operating in the San Francisco Bay. Coast Guard was aware of the contents of the packets.

According to our San Francisco Office, the Coast Guard advised the prison officials. Assistant Director Fred T. Wilkinson, Bureau of Prisons, was at Alcatraz at the time of the recovery of the packet from the Bay. Wilkinson could be the immediate source of Bennett's information.

ACTION:

In view of the potential harm of such releases to our investigation this matter is being brought to the attention of the Attorney General. Attached for approval is a memorandum to the Attorney General.

It is expected that you will assert the necessary leadership and direction to insure matters pertinent to the investigation are promptly reported to your office. Items found during the course of the search should be channelized to your office and premature disclosure of information can, of course, seriously jeopardize investigative activities. There should be no question as to the fact that the FBI is in charge of the over-all search to locate subjects and all aspects must be fully explored.

For record purposes, [redacted] of Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) this morning telephoned my office stating he had learned that James V. Bennett, Director, Bureau of Prisons, believes the three escapees are dead. [redacted] pointed out that apparently both Fred Wilkinson, Assistant Director of the Bureau of Prisons, and Bennett himself had done considerable talking over the week end and the only information news folks had been able to get is coming from Bureau of Prisons personnel or occasionally from the Coast Guard.

Wick told [redacted] that we could not comment on any phase of the investigation looking to the whereabouts of the escapees, that the FBI's job is to locate them and the full forces of the FBI are pressed into the search. [redacted] said he could well understand this position.

We have been holding a very tight line on this case, SAC's involved have been instructed to make no comment whatsoever and in accordance with the Director's instructions that no "blow by blow" account be given, we have and are maintaining a no comment.

Robber With High IQ Credited As Plotter of Alcatraz Escape

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16 (AP)—Who thought up this week's escape from Alcatraz is unclear. But it's apparent that the mastermind of the break by three southern bank robbers was Frank Lee Morris, a small man with the high intelligence quotient of 132.

Comment on the three escapes by Fred T. Wilkinson, assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, bears this out.

"Morris is quiet and very intelligent. He's not given to rash violence. Above all, he's a planner. The whole operation seems typical of him."

Mr. Wilkinson added, however, that the other men, brothers John and Clarence Anglin, "are more on the natively cunning side, throwbacks to the swamp country, more given to action."

Mr. Wilkinson said he came to know the men at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary where he served as warden.

Morris was 35, short, about 5-7½, weighed 135 pounds. He had hazel eyes and black, wavy hair, and a thin mouth. He was a fugitive from the State Prison at Angola, La., when he took part in a $6,165 burglary of a Slidell, (La.), bank on November 25, 1955. He was arrested at Houma, La., the following January.

14-Year Sentence

Later he tried to slip out of the Orleans Parish Prison, and then was sent to Alcatraz, "The Rock" in San Francisco Bay, on January 14, 1960, to complete his 14-year sentence.

John and Clarence Anglin and a third brother robbed a Columbia (Ala.) bank of $19,000 in January, 1958. They were arrested and the money recovered. Clarence already had a record of four escapes from Florida prison work gangs. On August 8, 1960, he was caught trying to spring John from the Leavenworth (Kan.) Federal Prison by secreting him in a bread box.

John was sent to Alcatraz in October 1960 and Clarence followed him January, 1961, to complete 15 and 10-year sentences, respectively.

John Anglin, 32, stood 5-10, weighed 140 pounds, had blue eyes and blond hair. Clarence, a year younger, was 5-11½, weighed 163, fair complexioned but hazel-eyed. They were 2 of 13 children in their family.

Morris, then, was already on "The Rock" eight months when the first Anglin arrived. The Anglins eventually were put in side-by-side cells, as is Federal custom for brothers. Morris was four cells away. The cells were on the lower tier of a triple decker.

Cell Walls Eroded

Morris must have noticed the cell walls are eroded and the metal fixtures rusted. Mr. Wilkinson and Warden Olin Blackwell admit this condition.

The first step must have been to pry at the walls around a metal ventilator cover. The results were satisfactory since all three men eventually chipped loose the ventilator covers in their cells. They would take the dirt down to the prison exercise yard and throw it to the winds, a handful at a time.

Eventually it became necessary to cover up their handiwork. There is a workshop in the prison and the warden says the men had access to such things as paint, glue, and so on. Someone with patience smuggled enough material into the cells to make and paint cardboard likenesses of the ventilator covers, plus a little bit of wall.

When did they do all this? The cell doors at Alcatraz clang shut at 5 p.m. Lights go out at 9:30 p.m. The men sleep in a sort of half-light, heads to the bar. There is an hourly check, the guard walking past.

The work clearly was done at night, the chipping of the walls with bits of spoons taken from the community mess.

The last time the men were seen was at lights out Monday. They were not missed until showup Tuesday morning at 7:15, almost 10 hours later.

In their beds, accepted all-night-long as fast asleep convicts, were amazingly life-like dummies with soap and plaster heads and pillow bodies.

Electric Moment

The head had real hair, flicked a handful at a time from the prison barber shop.

It must have been an electric moment for the men when they got the ventilator covers loose, and enlarged the holes in the four-inch thick walls to about 10-by-14 inches, big enough to crawl through.

What they found first was a passageway connecting all the cells. Now they could meet and plot without being observed. They could explore. Next there was a 30-foot pipe, narrow but wide enough to squirm up, that led to the roof.

From the roof it was 100 feet to any number of long drain pipes leading to the ground. Beyond that there was only a 12-foot barbed wire topped fence and 100 yards further they were on the beach, "The Rock's" cliffs rising some 100 feet above them.

At this point Alcatraz' very inaccessibility may have worked in favor of Morris and the Anglins.

The fog in San Francisco Bay is sometimes so thick it's blinding. On a night like that, and the Coast Guard reported late Monday and early Tuesday foggy, three loose convicts could not be seen. They were not, and how many nights they were loose no one knows.

Raft From Raincoats

Now that they knew they could reach Alcatraz' rocky beach, what next? Something would be needed to help them cross the water that lay in all directions. Here, too, an agile mind proved useful. Another convict said the trio fashioned a pontoon raft of raincoat sleeves. No such raft has been found, but since the escape two makeshift paddles, turned out in the Alcatraz workshop, have been discovered.

One of the paddles was found on "The Rock," the other on Angel Island to the north, the closest point of land to Alcatraz, but still two miles away.

This floating gear had been hidden on the roof.

Warden Blackwell and Mr. Wilkinson, the latter sent to Alcatraz to investigate the break, do not deny any of the above but they insist that once the men went to the water and embarked. "they were on their own."

Being on your own in the middle of San Francisco Bay on a foggy night with a fast tide lapping at you, water about 54 degrees numbing you, must be a nerve-tingling thing, a frightening thing.

Perhaps the most frightening thing is the fact that you wouldn't be able to see much. If the fog is in, the Golden Gate bridge to the west would be blotted out, as would the Oakland bridge to the east. The lighthouses would be blanketed. And fog horns would moan all around you.

Mr. Blackwell and Mr. Wilkinson insist that "even if they had a board or something," it would be too much for three "non-athletic types, for all of their planning" to overcome the challenge of the bay, a challenge on which the fame of Alcatraz is built.

Did They Make It?

Officially there is no police projection of what happened. The FBI, in charge of the search, would say only "we are doing everything we can think of. The case is not closed until there is a body."

Did they make it? No one knows.

Including Frank Lee Morris and John and Clarence Anglin, 38 men have tried to "bust the rock." Of these, eight were shot to death or found drowned. The rest never got off the island, some not even outside the cell blocks.

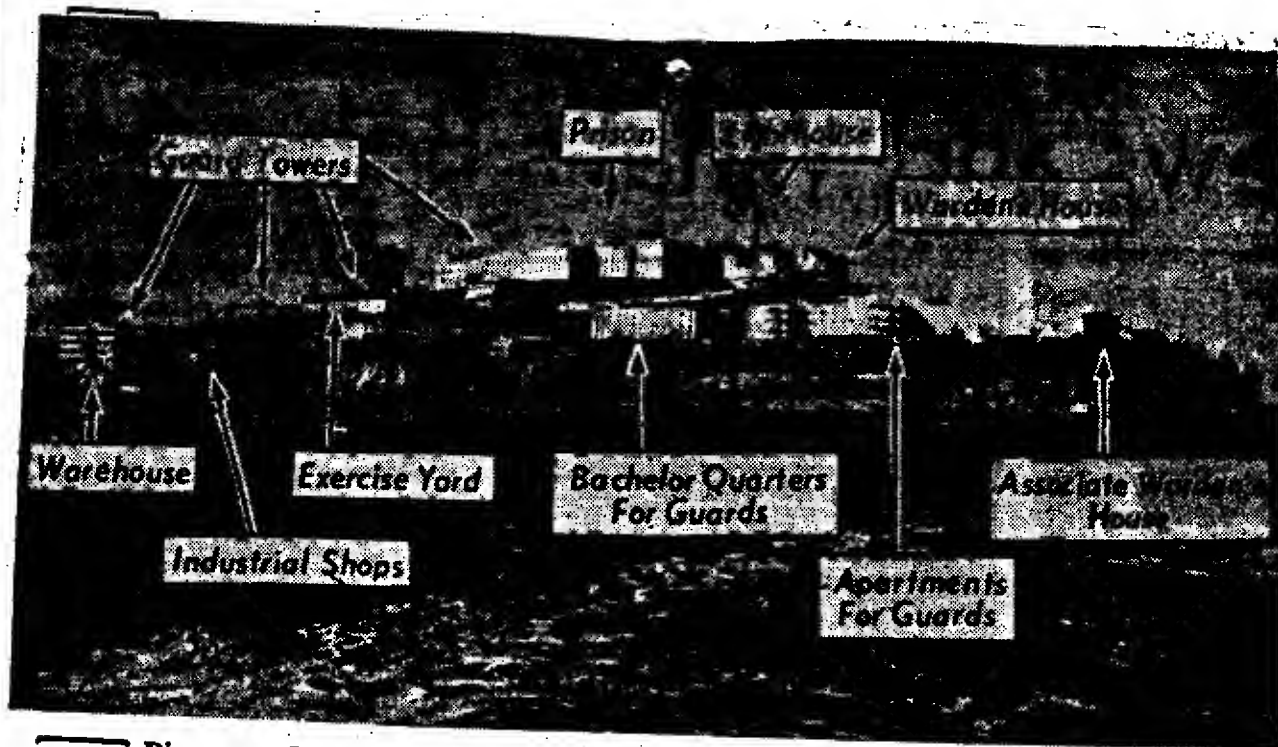

The last two men to try it, in 1958, were caught, one alive right after he set sail, the other after he had drowned. They, too, had improvised flotation gear. The dead man didn't turn up for 13 days.

In 1937, two Oklahoma bank robbers apparently swam off and the prison says they drowned. No trace has ever been found of these two, the only two men before last week to flee Alcatraz and remain unaccounted for.

"Morris and the Anglin boys escaped confinement," Mr. Wilkinson says. "There's no doubt about it. But they didn't escape from Alcatraz if they died in the attempt."

We may be in charge of the search but not certainly in charge of the publicity.

In view of the extensive teletype and radiogram traffic necessary in connection with the above matter San Francisco has requested authority for the use of the word ALCON as a code name.

Service Unit has advised that there are approximately 175 references on ALCON; however, there are no references on ALCOS and accordingly it is suggested that the code name ALCOS be adopted for use in the communications in view of the savings in typing and communication expenses which would result.

ACTION:

1. The radiogram to All SACS is attached authorizing the use of the code name ALCOS

2. It is suggested that this memorandum be referred to the Records Branch for appropriate action.

For record purposes, at 7:20 p.m. yesterday, 6-19-62, Ed Guthman in the Department telephoned Wick. He said there are many conflicting stories printed concerning the manner in which the escapees made their break from Alcatraz, whether 4, 5 or 10 persons were involved initially, whether disciplinary action will be taken against the prison authorities, and what the authorities now believe should be done next, and in general what progress is being made in determining whether the escapees are alive.

Guthman said he has been successful in stalling off the news media men by telling reporters that if disciplinary action is warranted it will, of course, be taken. He said he thinks now is the time to give out the full story of just how the break was accomplished, exactly how long it was planned, the details of the escape, how many were involved and then simply state the FBI is continuing its investigation to locate the men. Guthman said he did not believe any statement should be made if it would impede the FBI's investigation but that he strongly believed something would have to be said sooner or later and now appeared to be a good time to do it.

Wick told Guthman there has been too much talking already, that the FBI's job is directed toward the location of these men and their apprehension and our investigation does not go to the matter of security at the prison, that we are not investigating that aspect. He was told that we do not think it proper to make any statement at this time since it would certainly impede the investigation and, in fact, the talking done by James Bennett and Wilkinson of Bennett's Office had already impeded the investigation.

You can say that again!
 Guthman was told the FBI, both in the field and at headquarters, adhered strictly to a no comment on all aspects of this investigation. He was told we intended to hold to this. Guthman was told further that we would have no choice but to strongly protest the making of any statement such as he proposed at this time since certainly nothing whatsoever would be gained investigative wise and much could be lost.

Guthman said he would go along on this but he certainly wished there was some way that he could get the reporters off his back. Wick told him he might start by having Bennett keep still and also Wilkinson. Guthman said he believed that under the circumstances he would not make such a statement as indicated above.

Specimens of known handwriting written by CLARENCE ANGLIN and a post card addressed to the Warden at Alcatraz were submitted by San Francisco letter 6/18/62. Post card was signed "Frank, John, Clarence" and message thereon read "Ha Ha we made it." It was determined that CLARENCE ANGLIN did not prepare the written material on the post card. A comparison was made of the writings on the post card with the fingerprint card signatures of JOHN WILLIAM ANGLIN, FBI#4745119, and FRANK LEE MORRIS, FBI#2157606. Due to limited comparable material involved, it was not determined if the post card was written by either JOHN W. ANGLIN or FRANK LEE MORRIS. Nothing of particular significance was noted during this comparison.

The post card was forwarded to the latent fingerprint section for processing.

San Rafael, Calif., advised that during the years 1960 to 1962, 35 definite suicides were listed as jumping from the Golden Gate Bridge into San Francisco Bay. Five of these hit the rocks or ground underneath the extreme ends of the bridge and the bodies were readily recovered. Of the other 30 suicides, 17 bodies were recovered and 13 bodies have not been recovered.

His records also listed probable suicides during this same time as 12 with their bodies not being recovered.

The above indicates a total of some probable 42 suicides by individuals who actually went into the water of the San Francisco Bay, wherein 17 bodies have been found and 25 not found.

advised that an investigation is made of each suicide jump, and if three or four witnesses see an individual jump, it is listed as suicide. If only one person sees an individual jump from the bridge, it is listed as a probable suicide. advised that if an individual jumps from the Golden Gate Bridge near the shoreline and there is an incoming tide, there is a good possibility of recovery of the body, since the Coast Guard boats are only fifteen minutes from the bridge and a marker is thrown near the spot where the individual entered the water. However, when an individual jumps from near the center of the bridge into the Bay and there is an outgoing tide, the body is rarely recovered.

The above is submitted as significant, since at the probable time the escapees would have entered the water near Alcatraz, it would have been at the beginning of an outgoing tide, which offers the distinct possibility that they could have been taken out to sea in a short period of time under the Golden Gate Bridge. In this regard, from the life preservers recovered in this case, their exit through this means to the ocean could well have been facilitated by the additional buoyancy of the preservers.

Since the inception of this investigation, continuous contact has been maintained with all police agencies in the Greater San Francisco Area looking towards thefts of automobiles, clothing, food, guns, burglaries and robberies. Immediate investigation has been conducted relative to any such possible crimes which could be attributed to the escapees. However, to date, there has been none of the aforementioned crime happenings which could be traced to the escapees or in fact any information developed through extensive searches, neighborhoods, etc., indicating that the escapees safely made the mainland.

Investigation continuing.

Background:

U. S. Engineers office, San Francisco, has advised that the tides at time of Alcatraz escape on June 11, 1962 would have caused a free flowing body to flow out to the Pacific under Golden Gate Bridge. Because of force of tides, reaching of Angel Island would have been difficult. Water temperature was 50 to 54 degrees. All bodies located in the Bay area being closely checked for possible identification with the escapees. Intensive investigation continuing for any possible trace of the escapees.

Extensive investigation has been conducted since notification that the Anglin brothers and Morris escaped from their cells at Alcatraz on the night of June 11, 12, 1962. This has included coverage of all known associates and contacts of the trio, together with the issuance of wanted flyers and identification orders. Exhaustive searches have been made of the Alcatraz Island, Angel Island and numerous leads have been run out in the San Francisco Bay area without any indication that they were able to successfully traverse the treacherous currents.

Debris boats are continuing to sweep the Bay area in an effort to detect bodies of the escapees. Our San Francisco Office determined that the tides at the time of the escape would have caused a free flowing body to flow out to the Pacific under the Golden Gate Bridge and that because of the force of the tides, the reaching of Angel Island would have been difficult.

ACTION

In view of the findings to date and absence of any evidence that subjects survived the escape attempt, SAC, San Francisco has been instructed to limit future investigation accordingly. He was instructed that there should be no indication given of any lessening of our investigative interest in this matter.

Specimens received June 20, 1962

Q1 Postal card addressed to "Warden Alcatraz Prison Alcatraz Island San Francisco Bay, Calif" bearing hand printed message "HA HA WE MADE IT."

K1 Two envelopes and accompanying letters bearing known handwriting of CLARENCE ANGLIN

Result of examination:

It was concluded that the handwriting on specimen
Q1 was not written by CLARENCE ANGLIN, K1. The hand printing on the reverse side of specimen Q1 is not comparable with the handwriting on K1.

Fingerprint cards were located for JOHN WILLIAM ANGLIN, FBI#4745119, and FRANK LEE MORRIS, FBI#2157606.
Since the signatures on these fingerprint cards are not sufficiently comparable with the questioned writings on Q1 to permit a detailed comparison, it could not be determined if either JOHN WILLIAM ANGLIN or FRANK LEE MORRIS prepared any of the writings on Q1. As a matter of information, nothing of particular significance was noted during the comparison of the writings on Q1 with the fingerprint card signatures of JOHN WILLIAM ANGLIN and FRANK LEE MORRIS.

Specimen Q1 has been photographed and will be returned separately. Specimen K1 is returned herewith.

Alcatraz, California

date of interview
June 13, 1962

[REDACTED] an inmate of the U. S. Penitentiary, Alcatraz, Island, California was interviewed in the presence of Arthur M. Dollison, Associate Warden, United States Penitentiary, Alcatraz Island, California at that institution. He was initially advised that he need not furnish any information and if he did, same could be used against him in a Court of Law. He was advised as to his rights to consult an attorney. No threats or promises were made to him. b6
b7D

[REDACTED] advised that on May 5, 1961 he was released from the Treatment Unit at Alcatraz and returned to the main cell area. At that time he began to think about and looking for ways to break out of Alcatraz. It was general knowledge among the inmates that above the cell blocks there were some eight (8) ventilator holes to the roofing which had not been used in several years. These holes had been covered up, however, it appeared that the one above cellblock "C" had been cemented up according to information among the inmates. When painting in that area about 9 to 10 months ago, he noticed that the lid covering this ventilator hole to the roof was not cemented up as he originally had heard. He believed then that it was possible to break out that way. Around this time plumbers were working in the utility corridor which separates the cells in "B" cell block. This corridor contains all of the plumbing facilities which lead into the back of all of the cells in that block.

After the plumbers had finished working, [REDACTED] was instructed to clean the refuse from the utilities corridor. This utilities corridor is approximately 3 feet wide and extends to the roof of the building. While cleaning the floor of the utilities corridor, [REDACTED] was scraping up some material while on his hands and knees. Underneath a cement support, he noticed something wrapped in an oil paper. When he opened it he found that it contained some rusty saw blades and little pieces of files, all makeshift and which had evidently, from their condition, been secreted there for some 10 to 20 years. He left this material where he had located it. He mentioned to John Anglin, an inmate having cell #152 in Block "B". He had become acquainted with John Anglin previously when they were both in the Florida Penitentiary in Raiford, Florida about 1952. When discussing this with John Anglin, it was apparent that he was already aware of the possibility of escaping through the ventilation area in the roof. They discussed about the possibility of breaking out of Alcatraz and swimming to the mainland. [redacted] said that swimming to the mainland was impossible. They considered cutting a couple of the front cell bars and possibly going up the left front part of the cell area to behind a steel cage door and working on this as a means of exit, then they decided that this could not be accomplished. [redacted] said that he had told them that he had cut out of cement before at other institutions and it could be done so long as they had plenty of time. [redacted] said that they could go out through the roof through the ventilator hole as he felt that he could get the lid off. It was then apparent that they had to get out of the back part of their cell into the utility corridor to get to the roof. The only possible escape area at the back of the cell was through a 6 inch by 9 inch iron ventilator. It was decided that this hole could be enlarged by taking out the cement to approximately a 10 inch by 13 inch hole. [redacted] volunteered that he had previously checked through library books while at various institutions and had ascertained that cement would start disintegrating at from 500 to 900 degrees. [redacted] obtained some element wires similar to those in a toaster. He does not recall the source of these wires, however, he recalls that this occurred in October about 1961. [redacted] plugged this wire into the electric outlet in his cell, but he could not get enough heat through it to deteriorate the cement. He had discussed this, as well as the escape with John Anglin and Clarence Anglin, brother of John and who resides in cell #152 in "B" Block. b7c b7D

John Anglin said that he had a spoon which he had sharpened and which somewhat resembled a screw driver. John Anglin started poking around the side of the ventilator in his cell and he made a little bit of headway into the cement. This was about December of 1961, and by this time [redacted] had discussed the plan with Frank Morris #1441-AZ who was in cell #138 in "B" Block and who was to work with them. Clarence Anglin obtained a spoon and made a few dents in the cement next to his ventilator. The four of them got several spoons, the source of these spoons being not recalled, and by doubling them similar to a screw driver, started to make holes in the cement. It was decided to start the first hole a short distance from the top left hand corner of the ventilator grille. They started to work shortly after the 5:15 or 5:30 P. M. count in the evening and would work until 9:30 P. M. leveling

The cells of the two Anglin brothers were adjacent to each other. The cells of [redacted] and Morris were adjacent to each other. One evening, one of the Anglin Brothers would watch while the other worked and the next evening they would change positions. [redacted] and Morris used the same method. Finally, after about three days work, [redacted] dug a hole about 3 inches deep, then for a period of about thirty (30) days [redacted] was able to dig about two such holes every other night. During this period of time the other three inmates were making headway in their respective cells. [redacted] made approximately fifty (50) such holes around and to the left of this ventilator grille. He made holes directly to the left from the top left hand corner of the ventilator grille of a distance of approximately 4 inches. He then dug the holes directly towards the floor for a distance of approximately 10 inches. After this, he drilled small holes to the right and under the grilled ventilator for approximately 13 inches. He completed his hole by then taking the lower right hand corner and drilling small holes up the wall until it hit the lower right hand corner of the metal grille. As [redacted] completed each small hole, he plugged it with toilet paper and soap and then touched the outside of it up with paint so no one would notice it. The other three inmates were doing the same thing. They found a couple of pieces of metal stuck in the holes they had bored, and through this method they were able to make the holes larger and break one hole in to another. Finally the 3 inch deep slab of cement adjacent to the screen came out. Just prior to taking the slab of cement out, they made false cardboard fronts which would fit in the area to be removed. They put paint and shellac on the cardboard so it would appear the same as the rest of the wall and they used a small amount of cement to put the cardboard in while they were not working. They then hid their few drilling tools behind this false front. They then made a false ventilator grille front of cardboard and painted and varnished it so it would appear to be identical with the grille work of the ventilator plate presently there. They loosened the frame and the reinforcement rod of the ventilator grille and broke out the criss-cross pieces of metal in the ventilator grille. This took several weeks to accomplish. The little bits of residue metal were either flushed down the toilet in their respective cells or hidden behind the false cardboard area which they had inserted in the wall.

After taking out the ventilator grille, [redacted] then had an area to the left and below the ventilator grille to knock out. This was also approximately 3 inches in depth, however, with the ventilator grille out, [redacted] could place his arm through the 6 inch by 9 inch opening and get better leverage. [redacted] as of April 25, 1962, had practically completed knocking out the small remaining portion of cement. He ~~did not decide~~ to disturb the side of the cement adjacent to the utility corridor any further since, if any one checked the plumbing, they might notice same.

John Anglin had knocked his completely out about this time and one evening had crawled into the utility corridor. Anglin made a false cement back to cover the area he had knocked out of the wall leading into the utility corridor so it would not be noticed. John then did work from the utility corridor side and assisted Clarence Anglin in completing his hole.

June 13, 1962

John and Clarence Anglin then made a small dummy face out of cement and gave it a flesh color. They put hair and eyebrows on it with glue and they named it "Oink."

After Clarence broke through his hole in the wall, they made a dummy back for the hole which can be removed. This was made out of cardboard and painted. One evening Clarence Anglin went up the utility corridor to near the roof, using the network of plumbing in the corridor as a ladder. He crawled on top of the cell blocks. He used a screw driver and tried to take the screws out of the 18 1/2 inch diameter metal coupling which was between the roof ventilator and the roof. He couldn't accomplish this by himself and needed help. About this time [redacted] in connection with his work detail, had to paint one day in the utility corridor and above about the cell block area in the vicinity of this roof ventilator. While painting in that area that day, [redacted] took the screws out of the ventilator coupling. He had taken clasps from his bed and bolted them together and used them as a clamp, thus succeeding in loosening the screws of the coupling. The coupling, although unscrewed, was still in place so no one would notice anything amiss.

About this time, Clarence Anglin made a second dummy head of cement which was stored on top of the cell block next to the roof. This one was called "Oscar" and was to be given to Frank Morris. Then Clarence Anglin and Frank Morris went up the utility corridor next to the roof on about three evenings and they took the coupling out of the roof hole and from the ventilator. They put grease around it so it would slide out easily and replaced it so that no one would notice anything amiss.

While working around the cell block area painting, [redacted] noticed that bolts in certain instances were screwed in a tapin and were not bradded. He thus believed that this type of bolt could be loosened and therefore, since this was a type on a lid covering the ventilator hole to the roof, they would be able to remove that lid. When [redacted] was painting near the Barber Shop he grabbed some electric barber clips, placed them in a plastic bag and dropped them into his paint bucket. He removed them later the same day and secreted them in his cell. About that time, one of them was able to obtain about a dozen drill bits, the source of which was unknown to [redacted]. [redacted] then set up the motor of the barber clippers so that it would be used with the aid of the drill bits as a drill. Morris and one of the Anglin brothers tried to use this as a drill in removing the bolts of the lid covering the ventilator to the roof. They said the motor was too small and wouldn't do the job. About that time the vacuum cleaner in the cell area broke down and [redacted] had a chance to examine it to see if it could be repaired. [redacted] noted that it had two motors in it. He took one of the motors out and then he wired the other motor up so that it would run the vacuum cleaner.

June 13, 1962

On the day he obtained the motor from the vacuum cleaner, one of the inmates was hit over the head by another inmate in the kitchen area and during the confusion he was able to smuggle the motor to his cell without anyone noticing him. This motor was given to Morris and the Anglins, and they took it to the roof to use as a drill. They said that it made too much noise and they could not use it much. They were finally able to loosen the tamps in the lid covering the ventilator to the roofing. After getting them out, they replaced them so they could be easily removed. Some time before this, Clarence Anglin made a dummy head out of cement which was to be used by [redacted] when and until he left his cell and which was to be stored on top of the cell block near the roof. 672

About the first part of May, 1962 [redacted] obtained an olive colored rubberized raincoat from one of the inmates who was transferred from this institution and over the next few days obtained a couple of more of such raincoats. In addition, over the next few days he would pick up a raincoat when it was placed down by another inmate and when this individual was not looking. In the evening he would take these raincoats and cut them up and paste them together with some glue which had possibly been obtained from the glove factory at the institution. He would also sew some of the material together. He made a yoke life preserver out of this, and had made valves out of pieces of tubing which he could pick up at various times. At night the raincoats and the residue were hidden on top of the cell block near the roof in the ventilator pipe. [redacted] made all four yoke life preservers. John Anglin was using the same type raincoat in making the raft they proposed to use. Upon occasions, bits of this material were handed into the back of [redacted] cell so he could splice and glue the pieces together.

A raft was made which was approximately six (6) feet by fourteen (14) feet and which had fifteen (15) inch pontoons around the edge and to the underneath section of the raft. Originally, John Anglin had said that he had made a wooden type valve arrangement for one of the sections of the Pontoon but had discarded it in the ventilator pipe near the roof in favor of making the Pontoon with a rubberized type valve.

About a month and a half ago, Frank Morris bought a Concertina, which type instrument is allowed inmates at Alcatraz. The keys to the Concertina were taken out and a valve type arrangement was made with it so that you could put one foot in one of the straps of the Concertina and with your hand push the other portion of the strap down so that the Concertina would act as a bellows.

// Monday night, June 11, 1962 Morris had told me that we still had to go to the top off of the ventilator leading to the roof and to separate the bars on the roof. In addition, he indicated there was a little work left to complete the raft. Frank Morris said that the Anglins were talking about completing the work and breaking out that night. Clarence Anglin and Frank Morris left their cells and went up the utility corridor to the roof about 7:00 P. M. on June 11, 1962. Morris came down at about 8:45 P. M. that evening and said the bars were out of the hole on the roof and I gave him some water as he was thirsty. My vent to the utility corridor was still not quite completed since my job as to making the life preservers and assisting with the raft did not call for me to leave my cell. Also, if I had completed mine, it would have been necessary to make the false rear to it to possibly prevent detection. John Anglin had cemented up a portion of mine to the rear where I had cracked the side of the cement to the utility corridor so no one would notice it. In addition, while working in my cell, I had helped make the paddles we intended to use. I made four paddles, they were of plywood, 12 inches by 8 inches and with a wooden handle. I put about two or three bolts through the paddle and handle to hold them together. These paddles were stored up on top of the cell block and inside the ventilator pipe.

 "Morris indicated that we could go that evening if we got the lid off of the top of the ventilator. He said that the bars below it were out of the way and he felt that they would get that off by 9:30 P. M. He left and went up to the roof. Shortly thereafter I heard some noises and I started making noise to cover it up so no one would notice it. At 9:22 P. M. that date, Clarence Anglin tapped on my ventilator and said that ~~we~~ ^{we} could see the Moon. I tried to kick the rest of the cement out of the hole at the back of my cell. I could not do it. He tried to help for a minute or so but couldn't do anything. He then went up and got Morris. Morris came down and put the dummy in his bed. The lights were out at 9:30 P. M. and Morris went up to the roof and got a 2 inch piece of pipe and handed it to me. I tried to push it out but couldn't do it without making too much noise. Morris left to go get Clarence Anglin to help clear out my hole. This happened at 9:37 P. M. that evening. This is the last I heard or saw of them. As there was no dummy head for my bed I ~~couldn't~~ leave my cell until after the 3:00 A. M. count. ~~at that time~~ ^{was afraid at that time it'd break through and}

"At about 1:45 A. M. of June 12, 1962 after waiting for some time for them to come back, I broke through my hole and went to the roof by way of the utility corridor. There was no dummy for my bed. When I got into the utility corridor I noticed that they had left "Oink" laying there and I used this dummy head in my bed. I took my blue dungerees, undershirt and blue serge pea jacket to the roof with me. I could see that they had gone as the material, etc. which I had worked on, and which they had described to me, was gone. In addition, there had been some 100 feet of a heavy electrical cording which had been laying on the floor of the ^{utility} corridor and I had noticed upon leaving my cell that it had disappeared. This cording was to be used in lowering our material down from the roof of the cell house and possibly in assisting in lowering one of us down.

I became anxious and

"I put my life preserver on and my pea jacket and pants and started to go through the hole in the roof. I had to remove my clothing before I could get through the hole in the roof. When I got on the roof I put my clothing on again and went to the edge of the roof near the cage where the large black pipe leads to the ground. We had contemplated going down this pipe to the ground. I looked around and could not see them and figured it was too late for me to go. Also they had taken the raft which was to be our means of escape. The last I saw Morris was at 9:37 P. M. on June 11th, 1962 and it is my belief that they would have been able to leave the Island by 10:30 P. M. that night or possibly no later than 11:00 P. M. that evening.

"We had talked about going to Angel Island. It was believed that there would be less chance of detection if we proceeded in that direction. Upon getting to the mainland we had decided that we would commit a burglary so we could obtain guns and clothes, and then steal a car. It was our desire to go as far from this area as we could, although we had no plan as to where we would go. Just the four of us were involved in this escape. To assist in this effort, I had made a periscope out of paper and mirrors which we could stick out of the hole on the roof to see if there were any guards in that area prior to leaving the hole. I had given this periscope to Morris for one of the Anglins and it was stored next to the roof. The only possible weapons which they would have would possibly be a kitchen knife or some similar type objects which they might have sharpened.

"When we were working attempting to get out of our cells we would work from between about 5:30 P. M. and 9:30 P. M. in the evening. When Morris or the Anglins were working up near the roof they would generally do such work between 6:45 P. M. and 9:00 P. M. at night. Generally, Morris was with one of the Anglins when they went to the roof as I didn't desire that the two Anglins go there together as I didn't trust them. If we were successful in escaping, Morris and I had planned that sooner or later we would go in one direction and let the Anglin brothers go in another."

█████ stated that this is all of the information he had to furnish concerning this matter. He said that he did not believe in signed statements and would not furnish one. █████ advised that the other three individuals, as far as he knew, had the same type of clothing to take, namely, his regular denim garb and a pea jacket. He said he knew of no other clothing which would protect them from the cold water and he had none.
